Acne actually happens when our oil or sebaceous glands come to life. They are more active around puberty because they are stimulated by the male hormones from the adrenal glands for both boys and girls. Oil is a natural substance which lubricates and protects the skin. But when there is an increase in its production, cells that are close to the surface block the openings of the sebaceous glands. This blockage causes a pile up of oil underneath. This blocked oil further stimulates bacteria to multiply and cause the surrounding tissues to become inflamed.

If the inflammation is right near the surface, you get a pustule. If it is deeper, it will result in a papule or pimple; deeper still and it's a cyst. In many occasions, it has been seen that if the oil breaks through to the surface, it results in a whitehead. If the oil becomes oxidized, the oil changes from white to black and the result is a blackhead.

CHEMICAL PEEL TREATMENTS

As we grow older, the accumulated effects of sun exposure, pollutants, acne, and scarring damage our skin. This damage causes us to look older than we actually are. In the past, we had to accept this as the mark of time and age. Today, however, such skin damage can be treated. A chemical peel treatment devised by Advanced Laser Clinics has proved to be beneficial to the skin in the conditions of scars, aging, and wrinkles. This chemical peel treatment is a non-invasive procedure, specially designed to promote cell growth and produce smoother, clearer skin.

Advanced chemical peels are also used to treat melasma. Melasma is a skin condition characterized by irregularly shaped patches of brown skin usually found on the face and neck. Chemical peel treatments can be performed on the face, neck, chest, arms, hands, and legs. This magical treatment significantly reduces the appearance of facial folds, wrinkles, and crow's feet.

Advanced chemical peels are done by removing the damaged outer layers of the skin. Overall, there are various chemicals that can be used for this type of exfoliation. All you need to do is select the chemical according to your individual need. Moreover, chemical peels of various formulas can be used for varied purposes, ranging from the basic smoothing of dry skin to correcting sun blotches and removing pre-cancerous growths.

Chemical peel treatment is a delicate procedure and should always be performed by an expert. Before you select an expert for performing advanced chemical peels, make sure that she or he is an adequately trained and experienced physician. To learn whether the physician is able or not, ask questions non-hesitantly and candidly. Try to know more about the work and treatment background. Also, try to probe further about the procedure and learn how the physician wants to do the treatment. You can compare the answers with the ideal cases and have an idea about the ability of the physician. Do try to learn how long the treatment procedure will take, which chemical solutions will be used and why, what is the actual cost of the treatment, and what can be the side effects.

The most common question asked by various candidates undergoing this treatment is how long this treatment will take. According to the skin technicians at Advanced Laser Clinics, chemical peels for the full face generally take 10 - 15 minutes. STRETCH MARKS TREATMENT

Microdermabrasion stretch marks treatment is a procedure that is effective in reducing stretch marks, age spots, acne scars, and the skin's fine lines. It is a skin renewal process that accelerates collagen and skin cells production. The microdermabrasion stretch marks treatment involves the use of a pen-like device, which emits helpful crystals to the skin's surface, thereby activating its growth and cleansing. In this process, a tender abrasion course of action entails polishing out the skin's impurities, along with the stretch marks.

A normal microdermabrasion session usually lasts for 30 minutes or so. The patient has to undergo approximately 12 such sessions for desired good results, with every session two to three weeks apart. These sessions are complimented with maintenance procedures.

Among all skin care treatments, microdermabrasion stretch marks treatment is a highly successful procedure with several benefits to boost.

There are various benefits of microdermabrasion stretch marks treatment, some of them are:

A- Microdermabrasion stretch marks treatment has no side effects. This is because the process involves no peeling or scarring, on the skin. Microdermabrasion is the safest way to achieve a stretch mark-free skin in a short span of time.

B- This painless treatment is very effective. It gives the skin a healthy-looking glow and you will feel fresh right after each session. After undergoing continuous sessions, your stretch marks will be gone as if they never were there. However, it is also true that some extreme cases of stretch marks may require several sessions coupled with a lot of maintenance.

C- The process doesn't involve the use of surgery or long therapeutic sessions.

D- The biggest advantage of microdermabrasion stretch marks treatment is that it is applicable on any skin color and any skin type. Unlike some methods like laser, which do not work on certain skin types, microdermabrasion stretch marks treatment can accommodate your skin, irrespective of its color, texture, or the stretch mark's complexity.

E- Microdermabrasion stretch marks treatment follows a very simple formulation as it is noninvasive. While undergoing this treatment, your normal activities can be carried on as usual. Some people undergo this treatment during the lunch sessions in office.

LIGHT PULSE SKIN RENEWAL TREATMENT

Light pulse skin renewal treatment is a new concept developed by Advanced Laser Clinics. This unique therapy works effectively without laser resurfacing or painful chemical peels. The therapy is popularly tagged as an 'age-defying' technique. The light pulse skin renewal therapy combines of three proven ways in its treatment mode. Intense Pulsed Light (IPL), Microdermabrasion, and specially formulated skin care processes are combined to develop the system.

The light pulse skin renewal therapy has got three distinct and effective therapies:

A- IPL or Intense Pulsed Light: IPL or Intense Pulsed Light is a technology that emits a non-coherent, broad spectrum light. This light is attracted to cells with abnormal amounts of color, which is absorbed by melanin or hemoglobin. In this therapy the heat from the light injures the abnormally pigmented cells, resulting in a more evenly toned complexion. Light pulse skin renewal therapy is one of the most effective solutions for age or sunspots, freckles, mottled pigmentation or melasma, flushing or ruddy complexions, broken capillaries, and facial veins. Also it makes the skin texture not just smooth but also diminishes the appearance of enlarged pores and fine lines.

B- Microdermabrasion: After Intense Pulsed Light, the next therapy done is Microdermabrasion. Microdermabrasion is a treatment performed by a closed vacuum system delivering aluminum oxide crystals to the skin. This whole process exfoliates the thickened epidermis and vacuums away the crystals. This form of light pulse skin renewal therapy also aids in improving the skin's texture and enlarged pores. Simultaneously it diminishes the appearance of abnormal pigmentation by allowing your skin to absorb and utilize the skin care regimen.

C- Skin care regime: Last but not the least is skin care regime. In this step, Advanced Laser Clinics' offers a skin care regimen that is completely compatible with the IPL and Microdermabrasion therapies. Advanced Laser Clinics' skin technicians understand that not all skin care products are formulated for use before and after combination therapies. Thus, Advanced Laser Clinics' skin care uses the relevant and tested high quality ingredients suited to aid in cellular rejuvenation.

After undergoing the light pulse skin renewal therapy, it takes approximately two to four maintenance treatments to achieve the desired results. The nature and amount of subsequent maintenance treatments depend on the patient's skin texture.

Advanced Laser Clinics is a Chicago based skin clinic providing a wide range of skin therapies. Before performing any treatment, the specialists at the clinic will analyze your skin. Based on the analysis it will prepare a requirement chart and start performing the adequate therapy. If you wish to get more detailed information on light pulse skin renewal, skin renewal, IPL Photofacials, and photo rejuvenation acne skin log on to www.advancedlaserskin.com and interact with our experts.

KNOW ABOUT FACIAL MICRODERMABRASION

While regular dermabrasion procedure is used for clearing major facial disfigurations, such extensive burns, scarring and benign tumors, microdermabrasion is perfect for treating superficial skin disorders like acne scars, wrinkles, age spots and relatively minor skin aberrations.

Microdermabrasion was first developed by two Italian cosmetologists in the 1980's. It's a perfectly safe procedure and is completely non invasive. The results are also instantaneous because it targets the top layer of the skin - the epidermis. The epidermis itself consists of several layers and is constantly shedding dead cells. As we age our skin renewal process slows down and this results in wrinkles and other blemishes. Microdermabrasion is the process of spraying the surface with fine crystals of healthful minerals which are simultaneously picked by a sophisticated suction device. The process quickly clears the accumulated facial debris making it healthier and firmer than before.

Facial microdermabrasion stimulates the skin and encourages the production of collagen and elastin fibers. It also refines fine lines, clears brown spots, minimizes pores, heals scarred tissues effectively and clears up acne. Facial microdermabrasion will make you look and feel fabulous. Typically a Facial microdermabrasion treatment session is fixed for five to six sessions, spaced a week apart. Following are the benefits of facial microdermabrasion.

- No anesthetics are needed.
- The treatment is almost painless
- Can be performed quickly and a session is completed in an hour.
- Periodic sessions lead to maximum benefit.
- It's perfect for all skin types

Moreover unlike laser treatments that usually used to treat small areas of the body, microdermabrasion has been successfully used to treat larger body parts. It improves both the complexion and the texture of the entire area.
